The Mission of Keio University

"Keio University is not merely a place for academic pursuit. Its mission is to be a constant source of honorable character and a paragon of intellect and morals for the entire nation and for each member to apply this spirit to elucidate the essence of family, society, and nation. They will not only articulate this essence in words, but also demonstrate it in their actions, and by so doing make Keio a leader of society."

– Yukichi Fukuzawa, founder of Keio University, 1896

For future students, one important piece of advice that I would like to convey is that you are not just a student in Keio, but you are also a student in one of the largest cities in the world. There exist endless opportunities in Tokyo should you seek them. In conjunction with my academics, a consistent and early effort to connect with my environment and those around me helped in realizing my potential. The options available are far greater than those you may realize, so get out there and expand your horizons. This freedom unique to university life allowed me to explore and choose a path of my own creation, which is a privilege that I maximized as a university student in the metropolis of Tokyo.

GIGA (Global Information and Governance Academic) Program

My professors and research mentors have presented me with endless opportunities to see the world differently, have shown me that I have the potential to solve global problems no matter my age or experience, and instilled in me a thirst to take on huge challenges. Reflecting now, I think it is fitting and romantic to conclude that fate brought me here, where I presently conduct research on neuron-glioma synapses in Glioblastoma multiforme, a rare type of brain cancer, at the Keio Institute for Advanced Biosciences in Tsuruoka, Yamagata. My philosophy in life is to learn to live as I live to learn, and I encourage future Keio students, in chasing after lifelong dreams, that they remember to be humane in all of their pursuits.
